

THE OMAHA BEE

THURSDAY, AUG. 6, 1874

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

TO ADVERTISERS—THE CIRCULATION OF THE BEE IS MORE THAN DOUBLE THAT OF ANY OTHER DAILY PUBLISHED IN NEBRASKA.

—Peycke's Restaurant and Oyster room. The leading house of the kind. 207, Farnham street, between Twelfth and Thirtieth. feb24tf

OMAHA BREVITIES.

—The foundation of the north wall of the depot arch is being laid.

—The sum of $1,300 yet remains to be expended upon Hanscom Park this year.

—Captain Wheaton's company, (G.) of the 21st Infantry, left San Francisco on the 1st for Omaha barracks, and arrived here yesterday.

—Freight is now being received and shipped at the new freight house, near the Union Pacific depot.

—The services at the Catholic Cathedral yesterday, in memory of the late Bishop O'Gorman, were very solemn and impressive. The attendance was very large.

—An invitation to attend the Eighth Annual Fair of Cass county, to be held at Plattsmouth, September 15, 16 and 17, has been received.

—John O. Asburg, an employee in the kitchen of the U. P. depot restaurant, was assaulted and badly battered yesterday by the cook, John Johnson. A warrant of arrest was issued for Johnson.

—Stephen A. Dulore, who was committed to jail on Monday to await his trial on the charge of rape, was yesterday released from custody upon his giving the required $500 bail.

—The exquisite piano playing Tuesday evening, in the apartments under City Council chamber, ought to have served as an appeaser of the wrath of the honorable councilmen above; but, alas! in this case, music failed to have charms to soothe their savage breasts.

—Nebraska's best trotters, "Randall," "Bonnie Dean" and "Nebraska Granger," left yesterday for Clinton, Iowa, to take part in the races at that place next Tuesday. From there they go to Earlville, Mendota, and Sycamore, Illinois. These are all well known horses, and the probability is that they will carry off a good share of the prize money.

—The meeting of the Omaha Sunday School Union held Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church was a very pleasant affair, and was enjoyed by a goodly-sized audience. Speeches were made by Prof. Kelom and Rev. J. Donnelly of the Baptist Church. One week from next Sunday a mass meeting of all the Sunday Schools in the city will be held at eight o'clock and place as will be hereafter announced.

—Since the Ninth Infantry band took its departure for the West, the open air concerts have been greatly missed by our musically inclined citizens. We have heard it frequently asked, why don't the Union Pacific band play on the hill Saturday evenings? We have every reason to believe they would if they were invited, and as no one has thought of this, the BEE will take the liberty of inviting them, in the name of the people, to give us some open air concerts. We are confident that every one will acquiesce in this invitation, and we know that the fine music of this organization will be greatly appreciated by all.

Personal.
Messrs. Parker and Smith, prominent business men of Beatrice, were in the city Tuesday.

Jno. Delaney, formerly of Omaha, but now of North Platte, is in town on business. The Colonel looks as well as ever.

John Noble arrived in town from Yankton, Tuesday, and left for England yesterday. He didn't give anybody time to pass any resolutions or get up an ovation in his honor.

Among the many notables at the Metropolitan Hotel are Congressman Crouse, M. B. Hoxie, District Attorney of Colfax county; R. G. Heiner, of Fort Randall; E. H. Rogers, wife and daughter, Fremont; and Judge Maxwell, of Fremont.

Hon. J. H. Millard, Hon. J. F. Wilson, Hon. John A. Tibbits, and Hon. F. B. Brewer, Government directors of the Union Pacific Railway, left yesterday for the West in the director's car for their annual trip over the line. The car was comfortably supplied with provisions, and all the delicacies of the season, and the probability is that if the gentlemen are not overcome with fatigue, caused by their arduous duties, they will have a delightful trip.

The following are the arrivals at the Wyoming:
G Foster, Canterbury, N. H.; G F Kilborn, Fontenelle, Ia.; J Jacobs, Jr, M C Brun, Waupaca, Wis; J H Mitchell, Minneapolis; M Cassin, D Cassin, Marquette, Mich; O O Bogel, City; J E Benns, Rochester, N Y; Joseph Lang, Wm Bennett, James Conzett, S W Johnson, Paradise, Mo; J W Taylor, St Louis; H Evans, North Platte; J R Alton, Fairfield, Ia.

A MISSIONARY TOUR.

How those Ko-op Twins, Pratt and Poland, Organized a Ko-op Council at Beatrice.

How Pratt Settled the Hotel and Refreshment Bill.

As an Artist—he is a Success when he "Draws" a Draft on Poland.

The Beatrice Landlord is out Fifty Dollars.

The leading Ko-ops are still on the war-path, notwithstanding the fact that a great diminution has been constantly taking place in their ranks. The chief spirits have yet hopes of accomplishing great ends, and although they are about "ausgespelt" in Omaha, they are endeavoring to make up for the desertion in this city, by drumming up recruits in the country, and forming "Ko-op Councils." To do this work, the great mission of this missionary band composed of the checkered and most smooth-tongued cusses of the Omaha council, whose mission is to scour the rural districts, like the voracious grasshopper, and victimize the confiding countrymen, under the pretense of forming branch councils. The only difference between the grasshopper and the Ko-op missionaries, is that the former wholly destroys the corn, while the missionaries only get away with the corn juice.

Of course no more faithful missionaries could have been selected than D. H. Pratt and Luther Poland. Their antecedents were well known to Harrison Johnson, the National President, and, who, being convinced that they were natural born "Ko-op Kappers," chose them for the high and holy work of roping in suckers to the order.

About three weeks ago, those Siamese Twins, Pratt and Poland, started on a southwestern missionary tour. Arriving at Beatrice, they put up at the Emery House, kept by Mr. Halliday. They at once set at work with a commendable co-operative industry, and managed to drum up enough victims for a quorum for a branch council. The awkward sound was accordingly initiated into the mysteries of the order, and after the meeting was over, a grand justification was had at the Emery House, under the order of the organizers, Pratt and Poland. Refreshments, solid and liquid, were served up in abundance, and the twins were considered as jolly good fellows, and representatives of a powerful and wealthy organization.

Next day Mr. Poland returned to Omaha, pressing business having called him home—probably some important consultation with Gen. Silas A. Strickland, who had become lonely since Luther had gone out of town.

Mr. Pratt, although being left alone, was found, as the sequel will show, equal to meet the storm, as well as to follow. Mr. Halliday, the landlord, presented a bill of $40 to Mr. Pratt, who did not appear to be at all daunted by this small amount. Oh, no! Mr. Pratt, with a smile that was childlike and bland, intimated that, as he had been under heavy expenses lately, he was short just about that sum, but he would draw a draft on Mr. Poland, in Omaha, and it would be honored. He accordingly went to Smith & Brothers' bank and drew for fifty dollars from Mr. Poland. The bankers naturally required an endorsement. This little business demand of the bankers somewhat surprised Pratt, who didn't think it necessary in his case, as he was secretary of the Grand Island and Nebraska railroad, one of the grandest railways in the country, at a salary of $7,500 per annum, his work being done by a clerk at $50 per month. This little air-castle of Pratt's, however, did not pan out worth a cent. The talk was too breezy to be taken down by the men of duets, with whom "biz" is "baz,"—they must have an endorsement. Pratt, seeing that his air-castle had taken a tumble, proceeded to landlord Halliday, and induced him to endorse the draft. On this endorsement, Pratt got the $50, and out of it he paid the landlord's bill, and pocketed the remaining ten dollars for traveling expenses back to Omaha. The draft arrived in Omaha in due time, and was not honored by Poland. It was returned to Beatrice, and Mr. Halliday, the endorser, was obliged to fork over the $50 to Smith & Brothers, thus losing ten dollars besides the hotel bill.

Pratt related the details of his missionary work to the chief mourners, who patted him on the shoulder, and said, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Thou shalt have glory yet; and your reward shall be a promotion to the first degree of the Ko-ops—known as the degree of the 'deceased beat.'" TEXAS JACK. (J. B. Ombudra), who was for so long a time a partner of Buffalo Bill on the sensational stage, was in Omaha yesterday, having arrived from the East. He paid his respects to the BEE, one of his best friends, and then took the train for the West. His destination is Denver, Colorado, where he will meet the Earl of Dunraven and his companions, and pilot them through a two months' hunt. On his return East he will stop in Omaha, and visit his friends. He has abandoned the stage, and is now engaged in other business in the East. His wife, formerly known as Morlauchi, the celebrated danseuse, lives on her estate at Billerica, Massachusetts.

—The City Council held its regular weekly meeting Tuesday night.

—The Committee on Claims reported on bills and salaries amounting to $8,205.70.

—George W. Doane's bill of $400 for legal services was cut down to $200.

—The Mayor announced the resignation of Police Captain Majors, and nominated Christopher as Captain of Police. On motion of Alderman Lucas, it was laid over till unfinished business.

CITY COUNCIL.

—The City Council held its regular weekly meeting Tuesday night.

—The Committee on Claims reported on bills and salaries amounting to $8,205.70.

—George W. Doane's bill of $400 for legal services was cut down to $200.

—The Mayor announced the resignation of Police Captain Majors, and nominated Christopher as Captain of Police. On motion of Alderman Lucas, it was laid over till unfinished business.

—August Williams was appointed and confirmed as policeman, in place of Majors.

—A communication from George P. Bemis, asking for better sidewalk around the Catholic Cathedral, was referred to representatives of the First Ward.

—Chief Engineer Galligan, announced that Engine No. 3, was in bad condition, and needed repairing. Referred to committee on fire, who were instructed to make a contract for its repair.

—Chief Engineer Galligan stated that 24 feet of hose were needed for blowing out the flues of the engine.

—Stephenson believed that there were 24 feet in Omaha now, that had been supplied by the American Rubber Company, and yet we had no hose. He opposed the purchase of any hose until that was used.

—The Council adjourned for one week.

Bishop Clarkson's Opinion on Beecher.
Bishop Clarkson, of Nebraska, well known to Chicagoans as the former rector of St. James church, is in town, and was approached by a Times reporter for his views. The bishop remarked:

"I believe Mr. Beecher is innocent. His own denial and Mrs. Tilton's statement convince me of it. Mr. Beecher's life has been one of great usefulness. He has a large nature and his feelings are so far over him as to do a little wrong, but I do not believe he ever committed an improper act. I do not think it his duty to resign. It was necessary to call out the 'apology.' Much less would have been said powerfully on a man of Mr. Beecher's disposition, to create feelings of remorse and contrition. I think he will come out all right." Chicago Times August 4.

"A Trip Around the World"—Invitation to Hon. Wm. O. Clark to Lecture.
The following correspondence explains itself:

OMAHA, August 1, 1874.
Hon. Wm. O. Clark:
DEAR SIR: The undersigned having heard your interesting lecture on Palestine, Sunday evening, the 23rd ult., being highly pleased with the same, and having heard a general desire expressed to have you speak again in our city, we write with others who are anxious to hear you, to respectfully request that you will return and lecture in the First Baptist church at the earliest date that will suit your convenience. You will please favor us with not only a return to Palestine, but of your entire trip around the globe. We believe our people will honor you with a large and appreciative audience.
